Hi Mark!

It's a glorious day in Rome and the weather is beautiful!

Please take a look at our proposed schedule for you and let me know what you think.

I've included our superstar Foreign Commercial Service colleague, who confirms that the big mover/shaker U.S. firms headquarter in Milan, but will be game to come down for a roundtable when the Administrator is in town. Last week I sent the following U.S. companies to Hodayah, as EPA considers what two private companies to invite to Bologna. According to the annual publication of Italia Multinazionale, among the 40 largest foreign companies operating in Italy in terms of number of employed workers include these U.S. firms:

- Accenture
- GE
- Whirlpool (6,000 – and my FCS colleague told me they have a great environmental sustainability program.)
- IBM
- Carnival
- JP Morgan
- Hewlett Packard
- Apollo Capital Management

Also, we could meet with the organizers of Retake Roma. It would make for a nice outdoor event and good photo ops. Italian public officials love to show up for these when Americans are involved.

Let us know what you think!
